Alabama	Yes. Ala. Code § 8-1-190-197 (§ 8-1-1 repealed effective 1/1/2016)	Trade secrets; confidential information; commercial relationships or contacts with specific prospective or existing customers, patients, vendors, or clients; customer, patient, vendor, or client goodwill; specialized and unique training involving substantial business expenditure specifically directed to a particular agent, servant, or employee (if identified in writing as consideration for the restriction).	Must be in writing, signed by all parties, and be supported by adequate consideration. Must preserve a protectable interest. Employee-employer relationship must exist at the time the agreement is executed. A two-year restriction is presumptively reasonable. Employee has burden of proving undue hardship, if raised as a defense.	Professionals (includes physicians, physical therapists, veterinarians, public accountants, certified public accountants, and maybe securities brokers, all based on pre-2016 cases). Arkansas	Yes. AR Code 4-75-101	Trade secrets; intellectual property; customer lists; goodwill with customers; knowledge of business practices; methods; profit margins; costs; other confidential information (that is confidential, proprietary, and increases in value from not being known by a competitor); training and education; other valuable employer data (if provided to employee and an employer would reasonably seek to protect or safeguard from a competitor in the interest of fairness).	Limited with respect to time and scope in a manner that is not greater than necessary to defend the protectable business interest of the employer. The lack of a geographic limit does not render the agreement unenforceable, provided that the time and scope limits appropriately limit the restriction. Factors to consider include the nature of the employer's business interest; the geographic scope, including whether a geographic limit is feasible; whether the restriction is limited to specific group of customers or others; and the nature of the employer's business. A two-year restriction is presumptively reasonable unless clearly demonstrated otherwise.	Various professionals (medical, veterinary, social workers, others). Indiana	Yes	Trade secrets; confidential information; goodwill.	Reasonably necessary to protect the employer, not unreasonably restrictive of the employee and not against public policy. Clear and specific (not general) restraint must be reasonable in light of the legitimate interests to be protected; reasonableness is measured by totality of interrelationship of the interest, and the time, space, and scope of the restriction, judged by the needs for the restriction, the effect on the employee, and the public interest. Physician noncompetes entered into on or after July 1, 2020, must contain specific provisions concerning communications with patients, access to patient information, and a "buy-out" option. See Ind. 	This chart addresses only employee noncompetes. It does not cover noncompetes arising from the sale of a business or in other contexts.	The interests identified above are those expressly identified by statute or case law. Other protectable interests may exist. Trade secrets are subsumed within confidential information if not specified. Customer lists are frequently included within the category of trade secrets or confidential information, assuming the particular customer list satisfies the requirements to be protectable as such. Some states, however, separately identify them as protectable interests.	Consideration for a noncompete is always required, as is the requirement that a noncompete be ancillary to an otherwise lawful agreement. These requirements are typically satisfied when the agreement is entered into at the inception of an employment relationship.	Attorneys (outside counsel and in-house counsel) and certain persons in the financial services industry are subject to industry regulations not addressed in this chart. However, while outside counsel are exempt in all states; in-house counsel rules vary by state.	The continued employment issue addresses only at-will employment relationships.	Reformation is sometimes called "Judicial Modification," the "Rule of Reasonableness," the "Reasonable Alteration Approach," or the "Partial-Enforcement" rule. Red Pencil is sometimes called the "All or Nothing" rule. "Purple pencil" is a made-up term for the reformation approach with an express good faith (of the drafter) requirement grafted on.	Addresses only not-for-cause terminations and assumes no breach or bad faith by the employer.
